June 2021

History students hone critical thinking skills working with library collections

Students in Dr. Maria Montalvo's history class "Slavery and the Archive" delved into the Woodruff and Rose Library collections remotely this spring, searching for untold stories to use in their own research projects. Coming from a variety of majors, the students used critical thinking, research, and writing skills that they will be able to use in any type of career they pursue, Montalvo said.

READ MORE

CALL FOR PROPOSALS
FOR FALL 2021 SYMPOSIUM

In the Wake of Slavery & Dispossession:
Emory, Racism and the Journey Towards Restorative Justice
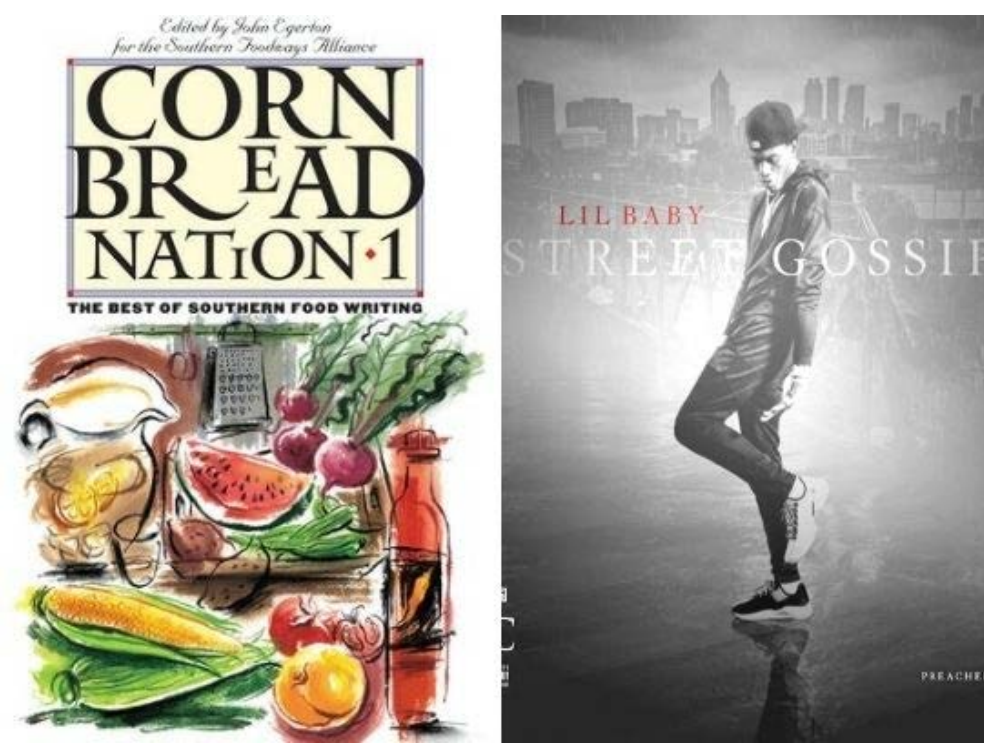

Students, staff, artists, scholars, and members of the Emory and broader communities can submit proposals.

For more information visit:
emorylib.info/slavery-symposium

Reminder: Symposium proposals due by June 18

Students, staff, alumni, faculty, and others both within and outside the Emory community are encouraged to submit proposals by June 18 for the fall 2021 symposium at Emory, "In the Wake of Slavery and Dispossession: Emory, Racism and the Journey Towards Restorative Justice." The symposium, set for Sept. 29-Oct. 1, will include virtual and in-person presentations. For more details and the link to submit proposals, click the link below.

LEARN MORE

Diversifying Emory Libraries collections

The Emory Libraries are focused on building more inclusive and diverse collections, from reflecting under-represented groups and marginalized populations to acquiring more unique material from smaller publishers, in order to better represent our communities and their interests. A recent blog series provides updates on these efforts, highlighting Latin American LGBT materials, Atlanta hip-hop recordings, South Asian linguistic materials, and more.

READ MORE

ROSE LIBRARY
PRESENTS

Rose Library podcast series wraps up inaugural season

If you haven't already, check out the Rose Library Presents podcast series from October 2020 to May 2021. There are actually three series – Community Conversations, Behind the Archives, and Atlanta Intersections – that feature great conversations with Rose staff members, community members, and those who placed their archives with the Rose Library. To find the list of the monthly episodes in each series, click on the link to each, then click "episodes" at the top. The general link to all three series is below.

LEARN MORE